This short family history represents but one chapter of a proposed history of the Weaver Family in Pennsylvania, which was started by the author in 1927. Several other members of the family are collaborating on other branches of the family so those similar chapters will be duplicated as they are completed and eventually it is hoped that all of it can be printed. Errors are bound to occur, but if pointed out to the author now, will be corrected before the final printing is made,

Rachael Packer was the daughter of John J • and Margaret Packer of Remola, Pennsylvania.

Minnie Quay was the daughter of Archibald Quay and Phoebe Jane Reynolds of Lake Superior, Ohio, and Remola, Penna.

II. MARGARET ELLEN WEAVER born 1870, lived at home helping with the housework and the care of the younger children, particularly after the death of her mother. In February 1889 she married Charles Johnson of Dubois, Penna. They lived at Dubois for twenty years and then settled in the vicinity of her home in Marsh Creek on what is noted on early maps as the Jas. Packer Place. Jas. Packer was Margaret's uncle. Johnsons purchased the place and lived there twenty-three years. The farm contained 120 acres.

Margaret and Charles were Democrats and members of the Disciple Church of Remola. Charles was a farmer, at least during his twenty-three years in Marsh Creek. He was an excellent marksman and loved to hunt. Both of them suffered long illnesses at various times in later life and although she seemed destined to succumb first to her various ailments, he preceded her, dying in 1937 two years before her death. Her last years were unhappy ones since they were spent as an invalid. Both are buried in the Remola Disciple Cemetery.

Their family consisted of two girls, Blanch and Stella. They met and married brothers while living at Dubois. Blanch born in 1893 married Clyde Emery Askey in 1909. They went to housekeeping in Dubois. Clyde first worked as a miner but after a year took up blacksmithing and worked at it for thirteen years at Eriatown, Penna. He then entered the car shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad and worked there for ten years, until 1930. He is now mining coal at Westville, Penna. They had a family of three boys and two girls. They own a home located just east of Dubois known locally as the A and M Junction. They are members of the Methodist Church and the Democratic Party.

Stella Johnson born in 1897, lived at home until her marriage to James Edgar Askey in 1907. They moved to Marsh Creek soon after their marriage. They live in Liberty townships north and east of Remola about two miles in what is known as 'Pole Cat'. They had three boys and one girl in their family, all of whom are now married. One son lives on the Johnson homestead. Margaret, Stella's mother, spent her last two years at their home.

Clyde Emery Askey b. 1888 and James Edgar Askey b. 1882 are brothers sons of Monroe Askey and Rebecca Jane Knarr. There were seven other Askey children: Wilbur Milton b. 1880, Ira Dal b. 1834, Leroy M. b. 1897, Barbara Luella b. 1877, Hattie Lovenia b. 1878, Mary Eva b. 1886, Ethel Mary b. 1894.

Family Life

George Weaver and Rachael Packer remained with his father and mother for one year after their marriage in 1868. They began housekeeping in a small house near the Remola School, which was located near his father's house. He farmed a small piece of ground of his own, but worked as a farm hand about Remola during most of the first ten years of married life.

On March 4, 1877, Rachael died of typhoid fever that she contracted from her son, Harry. Her youngest child, May was but six weeks old. George's father and mother then moved into his house and helped care for the family of five. At the end of five years, George remarried, George married Minnie Quay May 1, 1882. She lived on the farm just north of his home. He moved into the Quay home shortly after their marriage and their first child was born there, Minnie inherited the farm which adjoined the Quay farm to the north and George and Minnie moved to it, her brother inherited their homestead.

Upon moving to this farm, they erected a barn, added porches to the house and a kitchen. Henry Weaver, George's uncle and Nathaniel Pletcher helped with the carpentry. This farm consisted of seventy-five acres, George purchased an additional one thousand acres of mountain pasture land. They lived about forty years on this farm, until their family was raised and all had married except two. They retired in 1921 and moved to a small place with thirteen acres one-half mile south of the farm which they purchased from Charles and William Wentzel.

When George remarried he purchased the Cochler Place for his parents. This was located one mile north of the farm which they inherited. John and Maria took May Weaver, the youngest of George's children of the first marriage, to live with them. George's older boys left home to work as soon as they were big enough. They worked in lumber camps in the winter and returned to help with the farming in the summer.

All of the children went to the Quay School but most of them stopped before completing the eight grades. Most of the family became members of the Disciple Church of Remola. The parents and all of the children have been members of the Democratic Party,

George Weaver loved to hunt and taught all of his boys how as soon as they could handle a gun. He took them to what is known as "First Run", twelve miles northwest of Marsh Creek near Orviston, to hunt and then built a camp on the "Stiplings" located nearby. They hunted Oak Hill and Laurel Hill. Their next camp was located on Laurel Hill at the site of the Paper Mill camp, one mile beyond the first camp. They hunted here for many years, until George could no longer accompany them to the mountains. Then they purchased a camp south of Renova and they have hunted there as a family to the present time. George hunted some each year until his death.

George's seventy-five years as a farmer and a hunter were vigorous ones. He was unusually healthy and abstained from the use of tobacco and alcohol. He was very strict in the conduct of the children, administering severe punishment if not obeyed. He had a very strong temper and used it in maintaining control over his household and domestic animals. He owned two mules and a stallion, named Prince. Jack, the more stubborn of the two mules caused George considerable trouble. The stallion was killed after biting and dragging George, causing a severe arm injury. It was believed that George's death may have been hastened as the result of being kicked by these animals.

George died in 1925 from cancer of the stomach, suffering a relatively short time. At his death, he was survived by his wife Minnie, who was seventeen years his junior and thirteen children from both marriages, fifty-four grandchildren, and eight-great grandchildren.

Shortly after his death, a letter signed by all of the children, petitioned for a division of the estate. Letters of administration were issued to Minnie Weaver and Oscar Weaver with Charles and Harvey Weaver posting $6,000 Bail. The inventory was made by M.L. McCloskey and L.C. Boone January 21, 1926. It showed a judgement note for $527.50, cash in the bank $214.25, life insurance $2,000 and an auto valued at $200 and miscellaneous funds all totaling $3,050.00. The expenses incurred during the settlement were as follows: undertaker $235, doctor $40, widows exemption $500, attorney $100, administrators compensation $152.90, all totaling $1,313.28, leaving $1,817.64 for distribution. This permitted each of the children to receive $93.21 and the wife $605.88. Confirmation of the settlement was made March 9, 1927.

Minnie purchased the Wentzel Place and the auto. Lloyd had purchased the farm. Minnie later moved to Mill Hall and purchased a house and lot. Oscar bought the Wentzel place. Lloyd also purchased the Quay homestead.

Blanch moved to Mill Hall with Minnie and they have continued to live together to the present time. Many of the children remained in Marsh Creek near Remola and have raised large families,

I. JOHN MICHAEL WEAVER born 1869 the oldest in the family, remained at home until old enough to obtain work. He lumbered in the winter and returned home to help with the farming and hunting. Prior to his marriage he had become the father of a son, Russell Weaver with Edna Chapman as the mother. Upon his marriage in 1894 to Sadie Wagner, he moved to the Divide, the range of hills separating Marsh Creek and Remola from the Bald Eagle Valley and Howard. His second child, named Blair, born to his wife in December 1895 lived but eighteen months. Sadie died in 1897.

John Michael, always known as "Mitch", remarried in 1902 to Elizabeth McCommins at Little Valley, N.Y. He purchased a lot and house in Howard and they lived there ten years. During this time he lumbered with his brother Charles on the Heverley Place. He then went to West Virginia and became the boss of a lumber camp located at Thornwood. He remained there four years.

"Mitch" gave up lumbering then and moved to Sharon, Penna. and began working in the Westinghouse shops, where he remained until his death in 1931. He owned two lots and a large house at 597 Spruce Street at the time of his death. He had been an active member of the Masons, Moose, and Odd Fellows and had always been a member of the Democratic Party. "Mitch" and Elizabeth were both members of the Presbyterian Church in Sharon. His main hobby was hunting and he had learned the art of taxidermy, mounting many of his own trophies, and in later years he did it for others commercially. He had a fairly large private collection of trophies and guns.

His eldest son Russell lives in north-central Pennsylvania and is a minister and although married is believed to be without children. Blair died as the result of a fall while being handed across the fence at the Quay Place.

Elizabeth has remained at their Spruce Street home in Sharon, living from her inheritance. She has sold the original home in Howard. She devotes much time to the work of the church and the Women's auxiliaries of the lodges of her husband.

III. CHARLES N. WEAVER born 1873, lived at home sporadically working at various lumber camps and acquiring one of his own by the time he was old enough to be married. He married Rebecca Walker in December 1894 at Howard and their first child was born in 1895. They lived several months at his grandfathers, John and Maria Weaver on the Cochler Place. Russell, the second child was born in 1897. They moved to the Packer Place and lived there one year. Then they moved to the Divide where Charlie was operating a lumber mill. After five years they moved what is known on early maps as the "W.S. Lucas" place but was known as the "McCloskey Farm" when he bought it. It is located on the ridge about one and a half miles west of Remola and one half mile north of Marsh Creek.

The last four children of the family of six were born at the McCloskey farm but only the youngest of these four, Elmer survived infancy and he has not been endowed with all of his faculties, Rebecca, the mother, died in September 1923 and was buried at the Remola Disciple Cemetery, along with the children who had died in infancy. Charlie gradually gave up lumbering as much of the marketable timber in Marsh Creek was cropped, and began farming his property that he has continued to the present time. His son Elmer has assisted to some degree in the farming as have the other children and grandchildren at various times. The farm contains over one hundred acres. Charlie also owns approximately five hundred acres of other lands, some of it timbered, in Curtin and Liberty townships, which will be sold to form a trust fund for the care of Elmer upon his death.

Charlie has led a strenuous and rather lonely life and has known the sorrow of a broken family. Since the death of his wife, he has not remarried. He has done most of the farming and housework by himself. He is strong of body, being well developed from years in the lumbering camp, patterned much after his grandfather John who was well known for his strength. He has been very generous to his friends and relatives, coming to their aid in many ways, occasionally suffering financial loss as a result. Of all of the children of George Weaver, Charles has been the most ardent hunter. He took over the running of the annual hunting camp when his father became unable to accompany them and has continued it each year since.

Charlie's oldest child and only daughter, Maimie helped with the farm work and housekeeping until her marriage to Paul Miller in 1914, and then again after her mother's death 1923. She went to housekeeping at her father-in-laws place in Howard but soon moved to Monument where Paul worked in the brickyard. He worked here seven years and then they, moved to Charlie's farm to assist with the work when his wife died. Maimie died in 1929 upon the birth of her sixth child. Soon after his wife died Paul moved his family to a farm along the Bald Eagle Creek several miles west of Howard, where he lived until 1942 when he moved to Howard. His brother-in-law Russell Weaver adopted Paul's youngest child soon after its birth. Paul is a member of the Disciple Church and is a member of Republican Party.

Russell Weaver born in 1897, the second child of Charlie's, left home at an early age to work. After being in various parts of the country, he returned and married Francis Eminhizer in 1919. They first lived at the Heverly Place in Marsh Creek but remained for but one year. They then moved to Mill Hall where the family has remained to the present time. Russell worked in the paper mill. They purchased a lot on the west side of town and built a house on it. Here they raised a family of three children of their own and the adopted child of his sister Maime.

In 1941, Russell died of heart trouble which had caused him considerable suffering and worry.

IV. Harry F. Weaver was born 1875 and left home at the age of fourteen working as a lumberman After six years of it he took a trip to Atlanta5 Ga. He soon returned and after spending some at home, he began railroading He fired engines for nine years. During this latter period he met his wife, Gentzel of Spring Mills, PA., whom he married at Hublersburg in He lived at Hublersburg for three years after his marriage and purchased a farm at Rebersburg and began farming. He has lived on this farm since. It is located one mile north of the village and contains 165 acres of land. Harry is a Democrat.

Harry has suffered from the partial loss of his hearing He has been known as a "hard worker". His wife died in 1917 he has not remarried. Some of his family has helped him On the ffarm continuously since her death. He has one daughter and two sons. They are all married and have families, and the young est, John, has taken over the farming for his father, who is more or less retired.

Stella born 1900, is the oldest of the three children. She helped take care of the family, replacing the mother upon her premature death. She married Russell in 1925 and they soon moved to Pine Creek, just east of Coburn, Penna., they purchased a grist mill, which they are still opera—ting. This was made possible to a large extent by an inheritance which Stella received through a distant relative of her They have had seven children, all lIving at home.

Gale born in 1906 lived at home and helped his family until his marriage in 1929 to Chestie Schultz. They live in Rebersburg and have one child in 1937. He has been working as a supervisor on government road projects at various places throughout Centre County.

John born in 1908 has remained at home with his father and now running the farm. He married Ardrenna Winkle= beck in 1926. They have five children, one of which died as the result of a head fracture received indoors while playing with the other children.

She accompan— her grandparents, John and Maria Weaver, when they went to live on the Cochler place about 1882. She lived here until her in 1890 to Elmer Day. She had become the mother of a son named Irving the son of Jacob Brickley. He was adopt ed by Elmer Day upon their marriage.

Soon after their marriage they moved to a farm near Fairview three miles northeast of Howard, which they purchased.

The family has continued to live on this farm to the present5 time. Elmer died prematurely in 1919, when the youngest of their family of six sons was eight years old. May continued the farming and was able to keep the family together until each of the children was old enough to marry and become independent. The children assisted with the farming and also cooperated in the of a Grand Union Tea Company rural route. As the old— er boys married, the younger ones took over the farming and tea route. Floyd did the major portion of the farming, even after and until his premature death by pneumonia in 1937. His oldest daughter Lillian remained with her grandmother. The other boys have now married and left home

Harry Day born in 1887 did not remain at home very long, leaving when old enough to accept work. He went to New York and now resides at Fort Plain. He married Georgianna Chapman in 1917 and they have five children, the two youngest being twins. Harry has operated a Creamery.

William Day the second child died in 1891, the month of his birth. Elmer Doyle Day born in 1902 lived at home most of the time until his marriage in 1926, helping his mother of the farm, but he was mainly responsible for the operation of the Tea Company route. He married Elsie Haines who lived less than a mile northeast of his home. They lived for five years near his home at Shank Hill just east of Howard. While here Doyle continued as a salesman for the Grand Union Tea Company. Then they moved to Mill Hall and after several years moved to

-- Altoona, continuing with the same company.

Charles Day born in 1904 remained at home but a short time, leaving to work for the Grand Union Tea Company as a representative in the Williamsport office. He married Charlotte Schenck in 1926 and they have seven children. They have now returned to place near his mothers. He is operating a rural route for the tea company and helping to farm the homestead.

Floyd Day born in 1907 lived at home doing much of farming for his mother, and after his marriage to Violet

McKean who who was a a close neighbor, he continued to do the farming until his death in 1937. He contracted pneumonia as the result of exposure while hunting deer. His wife and three children lived with his mother for a time and then Violet moved with two of the children to a house near her home where one continued to live on a widow's pension from the state.

The oldest child Lillian remained with May on the homestead.

IX. HENRY SAMUEL WEAVER born in 1889, lived at home while attending grammar school at the Quay School, but stopped at age fourteen. He began working in lumber camps in the winter and helping his father with the farming in the summer. When fifteen he went to Cheat Mountain, W.V. to work as a lumberman with Georgy Quay. After five months he returned to Penna., to work in the brick yards at Orviston and Hayes Run, and in Coal mines at Kato. His brother Oscar was also working at Kato at this time. He then began mining coal at Snow Shoe and lived at Clarence with his brother "Mitch". At this time he became acquainted with Sena Confer, who had moved to Marsh Creek on the farm just north of his home. owned one of the finest driving horses and carriages in the region and was so proud of his horse "Dick" that he earned the nickname "Dick" which has stuck to the present time. "Dick" was active in the social activities of the community and played on the Remola baseball team with his brother Oscar in 1907.

Sena Confer went to Philadelphia to work for a year and upon her return in 1910 they were married. They lived with her father, Jacob Confer from October 1910 to February 1911, and then began to farm for Mr. Bechdel who lived near Mount Eagle on what is known as the McCartney Farm. Richard, their first child was born here in 1911. That same year they moved again with her family who had left Marsh Creek and had gone to Hunter Run on the Shank Farm. Near the end of 1911, Henry moved the family to Staub Hill, southeast of Snow Shoe, near where he was mining coal. Here they raised some of their own vegetables and owned a cow. Paul was born at this place. Sena contracted pneumonia and nearly died. so her father urged them to move. They did so in April 1911, going to Howard where they lived in the Jess Leathers place. Dick drove team for Gardner. In less than a year they moved to the Brigg's farm at Jacksonville and Dick farmed. Ruth the third and last child of this marriage was born here 1913. In March they moved to the Garbrick farm nearby but stayed only until August, 1914.

At this time, Dick was taken to the Danville Sanitarium, where he remained until March 1915. The household goods had been sold so Dick and Sena went to live with his family in Remola. Soon they set-up housekeeping again near the Remola Disciple Church in the Welsh house and Dick worked for the Grand Union Tea Company. In September 1915 he was returned to Danville and Sena took the children to her father's. He had moved to the Gardner Farm one mile west of Howard along the Bald Eagle Creek. Sena went to work again in Philadelphia as practical nurse and remained until 1921.

In 1916 Dick returned home and at his father's instigation sought and received a divorce on October 17, 1919. In 1917 Paul and Richard were sent to Pittsburgh to the Home of the Friendless where they remained for eighteen months. Sena returned home in 1921 to help her father with the farming and dairying and to help care for the family, ena changed her name to Confer when the divorce was also obtained sole right to the children. In October 1921 she took the children to Axemann and obtained work in the Bellefonte Silk Mill. She moved the family to Prossertown the following year and soon began working in the Titan

Metal Forge Company nearby. Paul had returned to the farm with her father and Ruth lived for a time with Sena's sister Mildred in Bellefonte. Richard remained at home. Sena then began working as housekeeper at the State Penitentiary Warden's home.

After a year of this, she moved her family to State College in 1926, where Richard and Ruth continued their schooling.

Paul remained with his grandparents who had now moved to Pleasant Gap. Within a year he joined the family at State College. Richard and Ruth completed their high school training here and

Paul stopped at the end of his second year to start working. Sena worked at various places as cook and housekeeper, operating one or more fraternity houses. Finally she established a home laundry business, renting linens to various fraternities at the College. At one time she operated a boarding club. She now operates an apartment house in conjunction with her laundry business. She has built a summer home eight miles west of State

Richard Weaver (the author of this history) born 1911, attended grammar school in Howard and Bellefonte and high school College, graduating in 1929. He completed his Bachelors Degree at the Pennsylvania State College in three and a half years by attending summer sessions and the Penn State Nature Camps. He held numerous jobs during his high school and college training, earning a large part of his expenses. He was a leader of one of the local scout troops and directed various local camps. In 1932 he married Florence Grow of Toledo, Ohio whom he had met at the Nature Camp. After finishing his last half year of college graduating in February 1933 in Nature Education, he enrolled as a graduate student at Cornell University. Florence continued her teaching in Toledo during this half year as well as the next three years when Richard taught in the Maumee Valley Country Day School in Toledo. In 1936 he returned to Cornell University to complete his graduate work and after another year of teaching, Florence joined him and began graduate work. Both completed degrees in September 1938, Richard a PhD and Florence MS. Richard obtained a position at Dartmouth College in 1938 and has served as College Naturalist until 1942. He has now accepted an appointment to the staff of the University of New Hampshire as Associate Professor of Biology and Extension Specialist in Conservation. They have two children.

Paul Weaver born in 1912 went to Binghamton, N.Y. in 1931 soon discontinuing high school. Here he met Julia Smith whom he married in 1962. He worked at numerous occupations including clerking in various stores, cooking in restaurants, and driving truck and then was employed by the ^{Endicott} Johnson Shoe Company in 1933 where he remained until 1942. His wife has also worked for this company at various times. They have purchased a home in Johnson City and have had two children.

Ruth Weaver born in 1916, graduated from high school and then entered nurses training at Clearfield in 1934 and completed the work in 1937. She has remained at home and single since graduation working for the College and for her mother, Henry Weaver went to West Virginia soon after his returned from Danville and worked his brother "Mitch" in a log—ging camp at Thornton and later at the mines at Roaring Creek Junction near Elkins, When called by the draft in 1918, he did not pass the examination, so after a short period of work in Port Matilda, mining clay, he went to Sayre, Penna., to work in the railroad shops with Russell Weaver his nephew. In June 1920 he went to Sharon to live with his brother "Mitch" who had left V.V. He married Katherine Peterson a school teacher, in June 1922. After short periods of work at Kensington, O, and at the Sharon Pressed Steel Company he went with the Westinghouse Electric Company where he remained until layed off in 1926, but returned with them in 1937 and has remained since. During the interim he worked as a salesman for the Fuller and Donald Brush Companies.

Katherine had continued to teach school for several years after their marriage and they purchased a house on Fourth Street and lived there from 1922 to 1929. Then they purchased another house at 302 Sherman Street where they moved and have remained since. Their first child born in 1926 did not live, but they have had two girls since, both at home and attending grammar school. Katherine suffered a partial paralysis at the birth of her second child and has been partially an invalid since,
